FORENSIC SQUAD TO OPEN SEASON WITH CALIFORNIA

California Women Debaters to Meet Schuck and Stetson On Tuesday Eve

Fall debating season will open wtih a flourish and a fanfare on Tuesday next, October 13, when the Saint Mary's varsity debate team of Carl Schuck and Rodney Stetson will meet Miss Florence Hadlin and Miss Helen Hendrich of the Parliament Debating Society of the University of California in the lounge.

The subject of the debate will be: "Resolved: that the practice of euthanasia should be approved," or to put it in plain words, that mercy killings should be sanctioned. Miss Marjorie Larsen, debate manager of the Parliament Society will be present at the debate. Chairman will be Joe Alioto. A capacity crowd is expected.

The next debate on the fall schedule will take place during the week of October 26, when our varsity debaters meet the teams of U. S. F. and Stanford successively. The first of these debates will take place on October 27, with Jack Clifford of U. S. F. and Laurence Mana of Saint Mary's defending the affirmative of the question, "Resolved: that the Democratic administration should be retained."

Walter Goldman of the local squad and Perry Ewing of the San Francisco team will defend the negative. This will be the first slpit debate that has been held on the campus in quite some time.

Following this event Mana and James Robertson will argue the question, "Resolved: that the New Deal should be condemned" with the varsity Stanford team on October 29 in the lounge. Large attendance is expected at both this debate and the one previous, due to the fact that they will take place on the week before the presidential election.

The first freshman debate of the year will be against Santa Rosa High School on November 4 in the lounge, when the first year men will have a chance to prove their mettle by their defense of the affirmative of the question, "Resolved: that all electrical utilities should be governmentally owned and operated." The negative will be defended by George Palmer and Alrae Olson of Santa Rosa. The

Local Talent To Be Stressed At Rally

Local talent will be used in the Santa Clara pre-game rally, November 13, it was announced by Bill Simon, senior president.

Present plans call for active participation by the Glee Club, the Dramatic Club, as well as prominent members of the student body, in the affair, Simon stated.

A feature of the rally will be the introduction of a new Saint Mary's fight song written by James McHugh.

In commenting on the coming affair, Simon declared, "We plan to make this rally one of the biggest and the best that has ever been given here. We realize that the Saint Mary's-Santa Clara game looms as a major contest on the coast and we are going to make the rally live up to the importance of the game."

The committee is considering the engagement of Joaquin Grill and his orchestra for the occasion, Simon revealed.

Pre-Meds Visit State Hospital

Group To Visit Stockton State Medical Institution

Stockton State Hospital has been chosen for the first Pre-Madical Club trip.

An invitation to visit the prominent Stockton state institution was made known to members at the club's meeting held Tuesday in Galileo 202. The local group was invited through a letter received from Margaret H. Smyth, superintendent of Stockton State Hospital.

Following on the heels of this opportunity, Fred Burrows, vice president, suggested Saturday, October 17, as the time for the visit. All members approved of the date and signified their intention to make the trip.

On the same evening Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Campbell will fete the members at their home in Berkeley. Dr. Campbell is the Pre-Medical Club moderator. The occasion is to welcome the newly admitted members.

McIntosh Moves

Heated discussion followed secretary Thomas McIntosh's motion that Pre-Dental students be allowed to join the club inasmuch as the Pre-Dentals take practically the same courses as the Pre-Meds. McIntosh stated that there had been several requests on the part of the Pre-Dental students to join.

FANS FLOCK TO SOUTHLAND FOR LOYOLA BATTLE

Record Breaking Hegira To Start Towards Southland For Pigskin Classic

Invading the south-land through the medium of every known vehicle the exodus of students and ardent college supporters to the Loyola game in Los Angeles began yesterday and promises to continue until nearly game time next Sunday afternoon.

Never before in the history of the college has such a large delegation planned and succeeded in going to Los Angeles, or any other distant city, for any athletic event. Early this week the athletic office announced that they had received many applications for tickets from people planning to attend and a large majority of the student body has exercised its privileges for ducats.

Here on the campus, the students are planning every possible means by which they might possibly secure transportation to the south. Nothing is being spared in the effort to get to the game. Whether or not lodgings will be available it at present a minor issue. Once in Los Angeles the fellows' thoughts will turn toward sleeping, maybe. If they do though, there will probably be a relative or a good friend handy.

Upon arrival in the southern city the college band, which is to be there almost full strength, will play a concert of school songs and novelty numbers to start everybody off in the right spirit. It was planned to have a parade through the downtown district, but permission could not be obtained for such a venture. Therefore, the band will play a few numbers at the station before the students and fans leave for their various destinations.

College Supporter Dies During Week

Saint Mary's lost one of its most ardent supporters this week with the death of Miss Daisy Keller of Oakland.

For years, Miss Keller had been vitally interested in the college and especially in the football team. Hardly a game went by, but what she could be found in the stadium rooting for her favorites.

Strangely enough it was during the California-Saint Mary's football game last Saturday that Miss Keller was taken seriously ill and had to be removed from the Berkeley stadium to her home. She was confined to bed from that time until Wednesday afternoon when she died.

Always a booster of the college, Miss Keller was interested in improvements for the school. A short time ago she held a large whist party at her home, the proceeds of which went toward a fund for the establishing of a women's rest room in Madigan Gymnasium.

Miss Keller had been employed at the Alameda County Hall of Records.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 from Saint Leo's Church in Oakland.

Brother Albert will represent the college at the funeral.

Death Calls Father Of College Professor

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning for Thomas J. Silva, father of Professor Claude Silva, professor of history.

Silva died at his home in San Lorenzo Wednesday morning after a brief illness. He had been a resident of that city for a number of years moving there from San Leandro where he was born.

Interment will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Hayward following the services to be conducted in Saint John's Church in San Lorenzo, where a high mass will be offered for the repose of his soul at 9:30.

The college will be represented at the funeral by Brother Albert, president of the college.

HOST

OAKLAND TRIBUNE

Brother Albert, president of the college, wast host at luncheon on Wednesday to Matthew Murphy, Consul of the Irish Fre State. Mr. Murphy was accompanied by his wife.

Irish Council Guest Of Brother Albert

Lending a diplomatic touch to the campus, Matthew Murphy, Irish Free State Consul of San Francisco, and his internationally famed wife, the former Baroness Kap-Herr, were the luncheon guests of Brother Albert on last Wednesday.

Mr. Murphy has been the consular representative of the Irish republic in many cities of the United States, including New York, Boston, Chicago, and Wasington. He has been in San Francisco for the past three and one-half years.

An interesting sidelight was revealed by the consul, who said that he had started his diplomatic career as an aide to Timothy Smiddy, a second cousin of Edward Smiddy, local instructor. According to Mr. Murphy, Timothy Smiddy was then head of the Irish legation, and is now a prominent figure in London.

Wife Is Famous Violinist

Mrs. Murphy, the ex-baroness, is known throughout the United States and Europe as an outstanding concert violinist, is considered to be one of the best concert violinists in the United States. She has played for many of the best symphony orchestras in Europe and has been the soloist in Vienna, Berlin, Nuremburg and other music centers of Europe. Recently she gave a concert in New York that met with great acclaim from all the critics.

Band Entrains For South This Evening

Coming as a well earned reward for their work during the past two years, the members of the band will journey south for the Loyola game to be played in Los Angeles, Sunday afternoon.

Last year the football team played all of its games at home other than the Fordham game and for that reason, the band was not given any trip, so when the southern game was scheduled for this season, the bandsmen were invited to attend.

Leaving tonight the men will board the special train and continue south with the members of the football team, and supporters of the college who are making the excursion offered by the college.

The band is planning to take with

Brief Rally To Be Held At Senior Bench, Noon

A short rally will be held today in front of the Senior Bench at 12:20, in preparation for the Loyola game to be played Sunday. The affair will be presided over by head yell-leader "Hi-Ho" Kenny, and featured speakers will be game-captain Ned "Saint" O'Laughlin, and Edward P. "Slip" Madigan.

EIGHT COUNCILS JOIN IN ANNUAL K. C. COMMUNION

Monsignor Robert Sampson to Represent Archbishop at K. C. Affair

Announcement of the designation of the Right Rev. Monsignor Robert Sampson, dean of the clergy of the Catholic church, for the counties of Alameda and Contra Costa, as the official representative of Most Rev. John J. Mitty, Archbishop of San Francisco, has enlivened interest in the annual Communion Mass of members of the Knights of Columbus of the eight East Bay Councils.

With Father Raymond T. Feeley, S. J., President of the Law Faculty of the University of San Francisco, as the principal speaker at the breakfast to follow the mass, assurance was evident that the Catholic opposition to Communism would be the theme of the gathering, as Father Feeney is recognized as the leading present day foe of Communism, having been instrumental in instituting a course in explanation of this vicious usurpation of popular government at his university, some time ago.

The mass, which will be attended by over 1000 Knights of Columbus, will be celebrated by Monsignor Sampson at Saint Joseph's Church, Addison and Jefferson streets, Berkeley, on Sunday, October 25, at 7:45 a. m.

Boys' Choir Sings

The justly famous boys' choir of 75 voices, which has been an attractive feature on festival occasions at this church, and at Berkeley Municipal Christmas celebrations, will lead the Knights of Columbus into the edifice for the observance of the newest feast in the calendar of the church, that of "Our Lord Jesus Christ the King."

State Chaplain, Right Rev. Monsignor Joseph M. Gleason, together with officials of the city and others, will be breakfast guests.

Last year the local council was host to the other councils of the East Bay, the Mass being celebrated in the college chapel by Father Benjamin Bowling, C. S. P., student chaplain.

Following the Mass, breakfast was served in the college dining hall. Joseph Rosborough was the toastmaster. Speakers included Brother Leo, Police Chief William J. Quinn of San Francisco, and the Hon. William H. Langdon of the Supreme Court of California.

Five Members Added To Local KC Council

First degree initiation of five new members to the local council of the Knights of Columbus will take place in the council chambers of the Oakland Knights of Columbus Tuesday, October 20.

The new men are: Bob Waters, Dan Leary, Edward Nevin, Henry Neutzel, and Gordon Julian.

At the weekly meeting of the council Monday evening, the tentative date of October 26 was set for a theater-dinner party in Oakland. Arrangements for the dinner are being made with Gaston's.

The council attended in a body its monthly communion at the 7:00 o'clock Mass Wednesday morning. Mass was celebrated by the council chaplain, Father Bowling.

Rosary Is Recited In Center Hall

During the month of October, set aside by the Church as the Month of the Holy Rosary, the Rosary is being recited every evening in the Center Hall chapel at nine o'clock.

Father Bowling, student chaplain, requested all boarders to attend this devotion to the Blessed Virgin and the Rosary.

CONDOLENCES

Sincerest condolences of the faculty and student body are extended to Professor Claude T. Silva on the death of his father.

Juniors Start Work On Dance At Meet

Holding their second meeting of the year, the Junior class met this morning to discuss plans for a dance to be given after the Santa Clara game. No definite hotel has been designated as yet, but a committee was appointed to decide this matter. One of the larger San Francisco hotels will be chosen.

This affair is expected to be well attended by students from both Saint Mary's and Santa Clara. Bids will be on sale within the next week.

Plans were discussed for raising money for the 1937 Gael, and for increasing the financial status of the class. President Karl Orth commended the various groups on their activity and cooperation, and indicated that the class would be perhaps more active this year than at any previous time.

Gaels Invited To Big Loyola Rally

Large Attendance Expected at Southern Festivities

To the Collegian has come word, via telegraph, that the Loyola University has invited the entire Saint Mary's delegation to be guests at a rally held in honor of both institutions.

The band and yell-leaders will be met at the train by the Loyola delegation and escorted to the rally. The affair, which promises to be colorful, will be held in the Forum Theater, Pico and Norton streets, on Saturday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Station KFWB, well known throughout the west, will handle the broadcasting, to be transmitted over the southern net work. The event, hailed in the southland as the biggest in that region, is expected to be attended by a large crowd of supporters from both Loyola and Saint Mary's.

Elaborate Program

An elaborate and interesting program has been planned, it was indicated, and no efforts are being spared to make the rally a distinct success. All groups which have left the campus up to this time have expressed their firm intention of attending the affair.

Entertainment will include speakers from both institutions, prominent sports scribes of the southland and bay region, songs, yells and excitement provided by the combined delegations.

The invitation, in the form of a telegram arrived late this week and has been enthusiastically received.

YELL KING GETS APPROPRIATION FOR TRIP SOUTH

Ex-Council Rejects Requests Of Assistant Yell-Leaders For Journey South

Cheered and booed by a record-breaking attendance, the executive council met Wednesday in its regular session. 'Almost perfect attendance and a large gallery filled the chambers of the legislative body.

Following an unchallenged reading of the minutes, reports of the various committees and sub-committees were received. Chairman Feeney, yearling representative, of the swimming pool committee, delivered a brief report upon the cleaning of the pool.

"Because of the brief period in which the pool will be open," stated Feeney, "it is not felt advisable to plan any further work in that direction."

Buscher Reprimanded

Late business in the form of traffic violations was discussed and decided upon. Parnell Buscher, senior traffic violator, was severely scored for his attitude concerning his summons before the council.

"The other violators," stated one representative, "have willingly cooperated with us in this matter and have maintained an attitude which is commendable. Mr. Buscher apparently feels himself to be above the rest in this affair, and should be reprimanded."

After a brief discussion, a motion to the effect that the charges be dropped was accepted. Chairman Shine and Secretary Baca issued a warning and a reprimand to Buscher for his action. Further violations would be avoided, Buscher stated.

Cal Dance Success

A report on the California Rally Dance disclosed a profit of $50 net, realized from the affair. Two bills were sanctioned and the matter was considered closed. According to committee reports, this dance was the most successful from both financial and social angles ever held on the campus.

Appropriation Refused

Munson, freshman day-dodger, put in a request for an appropriation to send the two assistant yell-leaders to Los Angeles for the Loyola game, but met with almost unanimous opposition. Those voting for the measure were Richard Moore, one of the assistant yell-leaders, and Munson, a member of

Fossil Bones Found Near Here By Student Party

The discovery of new, important fossil bones in the vicinity of Saint Mary's College by a party of searchers from the University of California was announced this week by Doctor A. S. Campbell, professor of Zoology here. "The party," stated Dr. Campbell, "made several important finds, among them a nearly complete jaw of a Pliohippus, an ancient horse, a half-jaw of a camel, bones of a dog, rabbit, some very valuable sloth bones, and several other bones which have not as yet been identified."

Dr. Campbell

The fossils were discovered in an unused quarry halfway between Moraga and Lafayette, and consist entirely of specimens from the middle Pliocene period. It was in this same quarry that last year Professor Stirton of the California Museum of Vertebrate Paleontology discovered the bones of a Pliohippus, Nannohippus (a dwarfted horse), a camel, a rhinoceros, and a ground sloth. This last was the first record of a groud sloth in the Pliocene period that had been found in the whole North and South American continents.

"The quarry," said Professor Campbell, "is a most important locality because it is the only exposed upper middle Pliocene strata in the region. In fact, this locality is one of the best for vertebrate fossils in Northern California, but the finds made in it last year were somewhat overshadowed by the discovery of the more spectacular mammoth fossils in the hills back of the college."

The professor stated that in ancient times the quarry was probably part of a river bed, and that apparently as the animals died, their bones collected in this pocket or bone bed.

In an appeal to amateur fossil hunters, the professor said, "If students bring in fossils, shells, or rocks at any time, I would ask them especially to keep an accurate record of the locality. If the fossil localities can be located on the map, this may be of greater value than their actual identification."

Ireland Makes Great Gain Under Own Rule, Consul

Interviewed on the campus Wednesday, Matthew Murphy, Consul of the Irish Free State, presented an interesting aspect of the Irish question. A question which receives little publicity in this country, the development of Ireland under her own rule is none the less interesting.

Great strides have been taken, more progress has been made than ever before, depopulation stopped, and economic independence is gradually being established. These facts became more apparent as Mr. Murphy explained the question.

Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Free State, it is to be noted, has been hailed by leading authorities on such matters as the greatest of living statesmen. Commenting upon this, Mr. Murphy pointed out that the results of De Valera's program have unquestionably proved this fact. Ireland's record under his leadership, it was emphasized, has been exceptional.

It was pointed out that at the time which De Valera had the government turned over to him, Ireland was in a very critical position. 25,000 persons a year were going to the United States, and about 5,000 more were settling in Australia. In other words, the consul emphasized Ireland was being depopulated.

De Valera's first step, he stated, was to stop this immigration and to solve the problem of unemployment in Ireland. Today, it was further shown, at the end of nearly five years, the unemployment situation is no worse than when those conditions existed, and yet immigration to the United States and other countries has ceased.

De Valera's policy, he further explained, is to make Ireland independent, both economically and politically. His policy has given more employment and stopped immigration; and the trend has proved what De Valera expected five years ago. "This," stated Mr. Murphy, "is what has made De Valera famous."

Turning to the economic phase of the question, Mr. Murphy created a very favorable picture of Ireland today. Agriculture, he pointed out, has turned more to cultivation than to grazing. "The aim is to cultivate the land for humans," stated the Consul, "and not for animals."

Two great products, it was shown have arisen out of the new agricultural plan: wheat and beets. The beet industry is of special importance to Ireland, the consul showed, for with it, no sugar need be imported. This is Ireland's aim in regard to this crop, and it is rapidly being attained, it was further stated.

In regard to wheat, Mr. Murphy indicated that such a crop was supposedly impossible to raise in Ireland, yet today the country has 200,000 acres under cultivation. With the development of this crop,

GAELS LEAVE OAKLAND TONIGHT FOR LOS ANGELES GAME

GALLOPERS BEAT BEARS 10-0 SATURDAY

Lou Ferry Starts Scoring With Field Goal; Groux Tallies

The Saint Mary's varsity football team lived up to all expectations in defeating the Golden Bears from over the hill. The Gaels displayed power, speed, strength, deceptiveness, spirit and fire in decisively beating the California squad by the score of 10 to 0.

In looking over the All-American dope book we find that on the Pacific Coast, Saint Mary's has the rating of fourth place, and who should be picked in first place, the most likely team to represent the west in the Rose Bowl Classic, but the now lowly California bears. But who cares about the dope book—so on with the results of the game.

The first quarter found the Gaels in trouble, and with California threatening to score once or twice. However before the end of this quarter, a Cal fumble enabled the Moraga Men to start goalward. On a series of line bucks and passes the Gaels advanced the ball to the Bears 20 yard marker. On fourth down Lou Ferry place-kicked one right between the bars and registered 3 points for the Madiganmen.

The second quarter found the Gaels threatening the Cal goal line time and again but their threat was not serious enough and the half ended with Saint Mary's on California's 3-yard line.

The start of the second half found Cal going to town only to be repulsed after advancing to the Gaels 2-yard stripe. Here the test was given the "Dream Team" of the coast and under a baptism of fire they showed they had the goods that should carry them through the '36 season undefeated. From their own goal line they marched to California's 20 yard line only to be stopped. Here Lou Ferry again tried a placement but it was yards wide of the goal posts.

The fourth quarter saw the Gaels earning a touchdown after a determined march from mid-field. Groux scored from the two yard line, behind splendid interference.

Although the Gaels marched goalward time and again lady luck seemed to go against them and the game ended without further score.

Les Groux was by far the outstanding man on the field and oftentime showed his heels to the highly touted California team.

Gerry Dennerlein, Bill Wilkin, Jerry Conlee, John Giannoni and Dutch Timm were outstanding in the line, and in the backfield, Ned O'Laughlin, Huey Sill, Floyd Maxham, Lou Ferry and Sylvio Rimassa reeled off yardage galore.

For California, Bob Herwig, Stockton and Meek offered plenty of opposition. And in the Bear back field Archer, Cornell and Blower were outstanding.

OAKLAND TRIBUNE

This picture was snapped just as LOU FERRY, Gael quarterback, sent the pigskin soaring squarely between the uprights in the second quarter of last Saturday's annual classic between the Bears and the Gaels. Ferry's field goal broke a scoreless deadlock, sending the Gallopers into a 3-to-0 lead over the Berkeley eleven, pre-season conference favorites.

GALLOPING GAELS HEAD FOR SOUTHLAND TONIGHT TO MEET LOYOLA LIONS AT COLISEUM

50,000 FANS EXPECTED TO SEE FAVORED GALLOPING GAEL ELEVEN DEFEAT DEL REY VARSITY SQUAD

Hoping to add another victim to their list, The Galloping Gaels board a Southern California-bound Saint Mary's special tonight to keep an engagement Sunday afternoon at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum with the unbeaten Loyola Lions.

Heavily favored to win their third consecutive game of the season, the Gallopers are unhampered by injuries and are set for the clash.

Tom Lieb's Lions, one of the best Loyola squads of recent years, have won their three games while "playing under wraps" for the Saint Mary's fracas. Lieb personally scouted the Gaels when they tangled with Gonzaga and California, and reported, "Saint Mary's can be beat."

Maybe the Gallopers are not far from invincible. But, according to the concensus of Coast opinion, the deed must be done by a great football squad.

The Gaels have an exceptionally fine mental attitude. They are determined to go through an undefeated season. With an exceptional mental attitude and physical power, the Moragans should trim Loyola.

The Lions, according to Eddie Erdelatz, who scouted the Loyola-Whittier game Friday night in Los Angeles, have a strong line, behind which is a fancy and classy backfield. Erdelatz maintains they are a constant threat throughout the game. They employ plenty of passes and laterals in addition to using to advantage a speedy and clever running attack.

It is interesting to note that when the Gaels and Lions clash, two second-half teams will be meeting. Loyola, in downing Cal Tech, Redlands and Whittier, came from behind in each game. The Del Rey eleven defeated Tech, 25-to-6; Redlands, 20-to-7, and Whittier, 14-to-6.

No less than 50,000 fans will pour into the huge stadium to see the Gael-Lion tussle, according to Graduate Manager Bill Smith.

O'LAUGHLIN LEADS GAELS

Ned O'Laughlin, a Los Angeles boy, will pilot his teammates against the Loyola Lions Sunday at the Memorial Coliseum, Coach Slip Madigan announced yesterday.

Whether or not a co-captain will be named as indicated earlier in the week, the Gael headman was not certain at a late hour last night.

Smith gives three reasons for this announcement: (1) both teams are undefeated; (2) the Gaels haven't shown in Los Angeles since they lost to U. C. L. A., 7-to-0, in 1934, and (3) Saint Mary's is regarded as one of the best teams on the Pacific Coast.

Several thousand Northern California rooters will follow the team to the South, including a great number of students. The head yell-leader "Hi-Ho" Kenny, and the college band will be bound for the game on the special tonight with the team.

The Gaels meet Spud Lewis' San Francisco Dons one week from Sunday at Kezar Stadium, leaving immediately after the game for their road trip to New York.

Harry Mattos and Nebb Elduayn, former Gael gridders, were signed this week to play professional football for an eastern club, it was reported.

Gerry Conlee Wins $80 at Bank Night

Gerry Conlee, guard on the 1936 Galloping Gael football team, today is eighty dollars richer.

It seems that bank night is a pretty good idea. At least Gerry thinks it is. Wednesday night he attended the "Gael" theater, the Walnut Creek movie house. That it was bank night made no difference to Gerry. He just went "to see the show."

Imagine his surprise when he discovered he held the lucky number in his right hand!

Gael, Don Yearling Grid Teams Battle to 6-6 Tie

By "LEFTY" ROBERTSON

In order to gain an even break, a 6 to 6 tie, the Gael freshmen had to extend themselves in their last Sunday's game with the strong University of San Francisco yearlings.

In the early stages of the game, the Saint Mary's frosh took the position of the favorites by virtue of a first quarter touchdown. A recovered Don fumble on the 15-yard stripe put the Gaelets in scoring territory. Two plays later Bob Smith, dynamic Gael yearling halfback, carried the ball into the end zone for six points. McPhail missed the try for the extra point.

Aroused by these early game precedings, the baby Dons began to take things into their own hands and thereafter did a bit of fancy playing for themselves.

Dons March 50 Yards

Gaining possession of the ball in mid-field, the hilltop yearlings came back with a 50 yard march to a touchdown. An 18-yard pass climaxed their display of power and netted them the six points. Fuchs failed in the try for point, and so ended the scoring for the day.

Later in the game the young Moragans had two chances for victory. However, on both occasions the too eager receivers allowed touchdown passes to slip through their fingers.

The Saint Mary's freshmen, fortunate in having no major injuries prior to this game, now have a doubtful starting lineup for their next tilt. Bob Smith has a severe shoulder injury which will keep him out of competition for the next three weeks. Lingua, a regular starter in the backfield, has an undetermined internal injury, which will keep him in the hospital for some time.

Sim's punting and Neilson's line play were outstanding for the Gaelets, while Bolster and Becker looked good for the Don babies.

Loyola Lions And Galloping Gaels in First Game Sunday

(Special to the Collegian)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—Two of the strongest "major independents" on the Pacific Coast will clash Sunday afternoon in the Coliseum when Slip Madigan and his Saint Mary's Gaels tangle with Tom Lieb's Loyola Lions.

Both Madigan and Lieb were one-time members of the Notre Dame varsity football team, receiving their early football training from the master of the game—the late Knute Rockne.

It will be the first time in history that the two teams have met, with the Gaels matching manpower and strength against the speed and deceptiveness of the Lions. With each succeeding game the Lions have shown improvement in all departments.

This year's Saint Mary's team has been titled the "dream team" of the Coast by northern sports writers, and those who have seen them in action.

GAEL GOSSIP

By BILL BETTENCOURT
(Sports Editor The Collegian)

To Saint Mary's second adopted city, Los Angeles, go the undefeated Galloping Gael varsity gridders to battle another unbeaten eleven, Tom Lieb's Loyola Lions, Sunday afternoon.

Following the gridders to the southern city are a surprisingly large number of loyal Red and Blue students and fans. Although many had made plans for the trip already before the California game, the victory over the highly-rated Golden Bears prompted many more to make the trek.

The gridders should feel at home with the varsity and a great number of rooters urging them "On to Victory" in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

Albeit the Madiganers will be facing another determined and fighting foe, we look forward to a close Saint Mary's victory. Saint Mary's is now a dangerous opponent for any team in the country and, with each game, will become more dangerous, more determined than ever to attain their goal.

On to Los Angeles—and victory!

GAELS, BRONCOS LONE UNDEFEATED TEAMS?

After this weekend, Saint Mary's and Santa Clara probably will be the only two undefeated collegiate football teams on the Pacific slope. Illinois may surprise and trim Howard Jones' Southern California Trojans.

U. C. L. A. battles the Washington Huskies tomorrow and should win, according to the experts. But Washington, too, may surprise by staging an upset. If these come to pass, the two "Independent Colleges" will be the only two undefeated Coast elevens. (That is—if Loyola and U. S. F. don't tally upsets Sunday.

Tom Lieb Was Guard On Notre Dame Team Under Knute Rockne

From the golden dome of Notre Dame to the Palisades of Del Rey came Tom Lieb in 1930 to coach the fast developing Loyola Lions of Los Angeles.

Lieb played guard on one of the famous Notre Dame elevens under the immortal Knute Rockne. After graduating from Notre Dame, he assisted Rockne coach the Fighting Irish teams. Later Lieb journeyed to Wisconsin to become line mentor at that school. But he returned to Notre Dame a short time later and handled the Ramblers the year Rockne was ill.

Because of his great work during that year he was asked by Loyola to be head coach of the football team. He accepted this offer in 1929, and took over the position in the fall of 1930.

Sensational Success

Under Coach Lieb the gridiron progress of Loyola has been nothing short of sensational. His teams have put up terrific battles with such noted teams as Southern California, U. C. L. A., and Santa Clara during the years he has been at the helm.

Head Mentor Lieb, having been a pupil of the famous Rockne, grooms his teams in the Notre Dame style of play. Also, like all Notre Dame coached teams, the Loyola Lions fight until the bitter end, and they never know when they are beaten.

Carl Jorgensen Now Prep Vice-Principal

Carl Jorgensen, a former Gael tackle who was named on the All-American team of The New York Sun in 1933, this week was appointed vice-principal of Mt. Shasta high school, it was learned yesterday.

Jorgensen is also head basketball and football coach at the prep institution, having been given the posts one year ago. He is the brother of Wagner, Gael all-Coast center, who graduated last May.

Fordham Rams Face Colorful Mustangs In Gotham Tomorrow

(Special to the Collegian)

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Coach Madison Bell's Mustangs of Southern Methodist University, colorful aerial circus of the Southwest, will visit New York for the second time Saturday to play Fordham. The two teams met in 1934 and S. M. U. was returned the winner, 26-14, scoring more points against the Rams than any team has been able to pile up on Fordham during a period covering the last seven seasons.

Although the Texans graduated 17 lettermen last June from the ranks of last season's Rose Bowl team, the nucleus of another strong outfit was left over in the personages of guard Paschal Scottino and right halfback Johnny Sprague, co-captain, and fullback Bob Finley, who, Fordham scouts maintain, is a better kicker and passer than All American Bobby Wilson.

Undefeated Broncos Expect Tough Battle From San Francisco

(Special to the Collegian)

SANTA CLARA, Oct. 8.—With two neat victories over Stanford and the University of Portland in the record books and their goal line still uncrossed, the Santa Clara Broncos march on to their next engagement with the University of San Francisco at Kezar Stadium Sunday afternoon.

Santa Clara defeated the University of San Francisco last year by a score of 20 to 7 because they were able to block two kicks. This year, however, the Broncos do not expect to be able to penetrate the Dons' defense when they are kicking because Spud Lewis undoubtedly will change his defense to cope with Bronco kick blocking stunts.

Buck Shaw used 41 players last Sunday in the game with the University of Portland, but against the University of San Francisco he will be forced start his eleven best men and leave them in the game just as long as they can carry on at top speed, it is expected.

Fighting Juniors Bow To Last-Year Men, 4-3, Yesterday

They did it! The all-powerful Seniors dethroned the Barney Terriors from their undisputed position as leaders of the intramural softball league. The first honors are now divided between the Juniors and Seniors, each team having won two and lost one game.

This latest development occurred yesterday afternoon when the proud Seniors trounced the invincible Terriers to the tune of 4 to 3.

Two home runs in the first half of the seventh inning put the game on ice for the last-year men. 'Cous' Jack Fissori and Jerry Spurke belted the four-ply smacks. Spurke, big gun of the day, also rapped out a home run in the third inning to put his team out in front for the time being.

Julian Lyons, Terrier second sacker, garnered two hits in four trips to the plate to lead his team in batting. "Pinkey" Bedillon, Jimmy Walsh, and Ed McMahon turned in some sparkling fielding plays for the losers.

Throughout the game "Cous" Fissori fairly reveled at the prospect of beating the bombing Terriers. When the game was over and won, he was in his glory. It is also rumored that he won a five cent bet on the affair.

Sophomores Defeat Freshmen 26-8 To Enter Win Column

In a one-sided intramural game, the revived Sophomore nine scored a 26 to 8 victory over the spirited but unorganized Freshman team Tuesday. This victory raised the second year men to second place in the league, which is still a wide open affair. A bitter fight for first place is looked for in the second half of the tournament.

But to get back to the game! Outstanding in the second year men's victory we find Roy Gargano, their ace pitcher. He allowed only 3 hits and fanned 8 men in the five innings before the game was called on account of darkness. The leading hitters on the winning team were Devy, who collected four bingles in as many times at bat, and Bill Glackin, who connected for three long drives.

The freshmen, although a bit ragged in their fielding, have a great deal of talent on their squad. A good pitcher would put their team in the win column. Coach Tom Feeney stated that his team would make a comeback in the last half of the race in an attempt to capture the flag.

Zilch Bats 4 for 5

* * * *

Gaels Will Win

* * * *

So Will Broncos

Hitting his old stride last week, Peerless Peter jumped out ahead when he picked four out of five tough ones to increase his bankroll to a total of twenty one cartwheels. His only setback came when the "Berkeley Bucks," which were not present Saturday at Strawberry Canyon, became evident Sunday and took hold of the frosh tilt at Kezar and the Gaelets were held to a 6-6 tie by the Don Babes to upset the dope sheet.

This week the going is getting tougher with northern teams going south, southern teams going north, and western teams clashing with eastern teams in intersectional contests, which tends to complicate matters for Peerless Peter's picking. Oh, well, here goes!

SAINT MARY'S OVER LOYOLA. The Gaels are greatly inspired by their victory over the Bears, which was, in my estimation, a turning point in this year's success. The Gaels travel to Los Angeles where they "do battle" with Loyola, which is loaded with a powerful football team. 'Tis well that the Gaels are so well set at this time in the season or the Lions might take a big chunk out of Senor Moraga's leg in the form of a victory. The Gaels are galloping and if old man "letdown" and old man "upset" stays clear Sunday, the Gaels will gallop over by a two touchdown margin—and bring home ten iron men for Peter Zilch.

CALIFORNIA OVER OREGON. The Bears are a much improved team this week after their defeat by the Gaels last Saturday. It will take a very good team to get the Bears on the run again. The Staters have shown very little this year with a defeat to El Trojan and a victory (14-0) over Willamette, but lest you forget, a northern team seems to be a much better team when it is playing to a home crowd in the north. A five spot bet on the Bears by a close score.

WASHINGTON OVER U. C. L. A. This game gives me the jitters. The critics from down south believe U. C. L. A. to be the best in the conference, better than the strong team of Troy. Washington is good; if they get over U. C. L. A., then the Huskies will be the "team to beat," and conversely the Bruins can be the same thing. I bet five on the Huskies, a team with a sweet backfield and one that showed up good against the nation's best.

STANFORD OVER OREGON. After two beatings in a row, look for the Big Red Machine to regain some lost prestige and take the northerners into camp by a two touchdown margin. Peter lays down four more.

U. S. C. OVER ILLINOIS. The Jones boys are about as good as there is in the southland and one of the best we've seen for a long time. With hopes of making a good showing in the east and their eyes glued on the Rose Bowl the Trojan will be a tough warrior this weekend. Peerless likes the Jones men by one touchdown and places another five on them.

SANTA CLARA OVER U. S. F. This will be an interesting clash, as the dope seems to baffle the experts including Peter Zilch. In their first game the experts met a better team than the Broncos and showed up well against them. Peterson has been shifted to right half so Lewis has something in mind. Shaw's boys have shown great potentialities so far. They are further advanced than the Dons. The wind is blowing right for the Broncos and their extra fight will bring them out ahead. Score 13-6; bet three bucks.

That's the dope, and I hope to return next week with forty bucks in my account. S'long.

The Galloping Gaels will travel to Los Angeles to do battle with the strong Loyola squad without a serious injury to hamper their chances. All the players are in fine physical condition and are rarin' to go.

BRONCOS UNDEFEATED, UNTIED, UNSCORED ON

Santa Clara is the only team on the coast that is undefeated, untied and unscored upon. Because of their relatively "soft" schedule, the Broncs may go into the Gael game on November 15 with that record.

They meet San Francisco Sunday and San Jose one week from tomorrow. Alabama Poly is met on October 31, two weeks after the San Jose game. Two weeks after the Alabama tilt, Santa Clara clashes with Saint Mary's.

RAMS, MUSTANGS CLASH TOMORROW

Fordham runs into an unknown quantity tomorrow in the form of Southern Methodist. While the Rams were shellacking Franklin-Marshall, 66-to-7, Saturday, the Mustangs were subduing Texas A. and I., 61-to-0. Apparently both rivals tangled with set-ups.

Temple, after defeating a "pretty good" Mississippi eleven, faces another test Monday when the Owls meet Boston College. The Bostonians trimmed Northeastern, 26-to-6 Saturday.

BRONCOS FAVORED OVED U. S. F. DONS

Undefeated San Francisco is "favored" to receive its first taste of defeat Sunday when the Dons meet Buck Shaw's Broncos. Santa Clara will be heavily favored to triumph. Both teams are about on a par defensively. Offensively, however, the Broncos are considered much better than the Hilltop eleven.

Idaho is another '36 Gael foe who will be "favored" to be defeated this weekend when the Vandals clash with the Washington State Cougars, 14-to-13 victors over the Stanford Indians.

To Portland go the California Bears to meet the Oregon Staters, who defeated Willamette, 13-to-0, last week. The tilt looms as a close one.

Senior Sketches

By LAURENCE MANA

Possibly because of his quiet, dignified and unassuming way, William Tipton has come to the greater notice and regard of all the students. His gentle and polite mannerisms naturally attract attention and esteem especially by those who have come in close contact with him. He is complete proof that every country boy is not a dude or a yokel; on the contrary he leads one to believe that city boys are the yokels.

William Tipton

In his position as Brother Clement's assistant in our schol library Bill has earned the friendship and gratitude of every student ever to need assistance. Again and again he has sacrificed more than ever his position called for so as a student's whim might be satisfied —and never with a scorn. Always he has maintained the calm, serene, and placid attitude characteristic of William Tipton.

Active In Clubs

Bill has been most active and outstanding in extra-curricular affairs here at Saint Mary's. At present he is the head of the St. Vincent de Paul society carrying on the same work being done not only in the United States but all over the world—work started by the saintly founder in the 18th century. When Bill took over the reins of the club its activities were increased many times, besides becoming imbued with a new spirit and vitality.

His is also the honor of belonging to both honor societies—the A. P. G. U., of which he is treasurer and the Economics Honor Society. Surely this attests his numerous capabilities along scholastic and cultural lines.

As a junior he was secretary of the A. S. S. M. C.—one of the few juniors ever to hold a student body position, but well qualified by his previous experience as vice-president of Visalia Union High School. While at Visalia he starred in basketball and football.

His other achievements may be listed as follows: Senior Class representative to the Student Affairs Committee, the organization and development of the Glee Club during his junior and soph years, and sophomore representative on the Ex-Council.

Future Is Rosy

Bill is registered in the A. and L. curriculum, having majored in economics and history—a thorough preparation for the exporting field he will enter after graduation. Yes, his future plans are definitely set—he has a position lined up in San Francisco waiting for him. Isn't that the dream of every senior?

Well, Bill, there is no need to elaborate further. We who know you and have been helped by you are ever thankful for all you have done, not only for ourselves but for everyone. We who are not seniors, will feel your loss deeply; seniors will be wounded still more by the cruel fate of graduation which spells the parting of ways after four glorious and eventful years together—years of struggle, of play —years to be lived again only as memories. And those memories will always bring back to us gracious, and gentlemanly, William Tipton.

Bronco Backs Evenly Divide Point Scoring

The Broncos have scored six touchdowns to date but the scores have been evenly divided among the backs. Jules Perrin, Manny Gomez, Chuck Pavelko, Jim Barlow, Jim Smith, and Ev Fisher each have scored one touchdown. On defense they have been perfect, having kept opponents thus far from crossing their goal line.

Coach Clipper Smith leads his Villanova eleven against a tough Pennsylvania State squad tomorrow afternon.

Lee Artoe, the giant sophomore tackle from Tacoma, showed just how far he can really kick a ball against Portland when he dropped into the backfield on punt formation. With the ball on Santa Clara's 32 yard line, Artoe stood 10 yards behind his own line and kicked the ball into the end zone, a distance from his toe of 78 yards.

Motion Picture Is Ranked 4th Biggest In U. S. Industries

Although Americans generally know that the motion picture industry is a large industry, few realize that the preparation of the celluloid strip for the entertainment of such vast numbers of people throughout the world is the fourth largest industry in the country. Figures just released by the U. S. Department of Commerce show that the total world investment in motion pictures is $2,650,000,000 of which $2,000,000,000 is invested in the United States. Approximately 80,000,000 people pass through the doors of the cinema palaces in the United States each week, the figures show.

The figures of investment in motion picture production and exhibition indicate that while other countries are making tremendous strides in the field, it will be some time before they become a great threat to the American industry. Despite the undoubted excellence of some of the foreign product recently shown in this country, American technique, both with respect to photography and sound, still surpasses anything yet produced in other countries. The British producers, however, are closing this gap rapidly by the use of American directors, cinematographers, and other technicians.

Many people, after seeing some of the few foreign films released in this country are prone to believe that the foreign product generally is superior to that produced in this country. This superiority, however, is more apparent than real, for it should be remembered that the foreign releases which arrive in this country are the "cream of the crop." We do not receive the ordinary British, French and German motion pictures, which make up the bulk of their cinematic production just as they do in this country. The result is that the theatergoer compares a few selected foreign productions with the general run of American films, which include excellent, good, bad, and indifferent pictures.

Landscaping Proceeds Grass Plots Added

Two more panels of green grass was the promise of Mr. Von Wetter, college landscape artist, given Tuesday.

Work on the landscaping is going along very well and several improvements upon the campus are being planned. Two panels of grass between the chapel and station are being prepared and will probably be sown before Saturday.

Also, due to the improper soil conditions and drainage the two rows of Juniper bordering the lawn in front of the Chapel are to be removed within several weeks. Annual flowers will be sown there until a substitute is found.

After the frost has nipped the other flowers the campus will still be brightened by two pansy beds, one in the library court and the other in the square in front of the chapel.

The ground is being prepared for these now and several hundred pansy plants are being fostered in the nursery.

Work on La Salle hill, Von Wetter stated, would be suspended until after the rains.

Works At College

Around the world on two dollars! That is the record of Carl Peterson, who at present is employed by the College.

In an interview with the Collegian, Peterson revealed the many experiences of his travels which have taken him to every corner of the globe. Twice he has traveled around the world, a distance of over four hundred thousand miles.

Filled with the wanderlust, the desire to travel, Peterson began his long series of adventures at the age of eighteen when he left his home in Kolding, Denmark, with but two dollars in his pockets.

Visits Many Countries

His travels first took him to the various historic spots on the European continent, where he visited Kings and members of the fast disappearing Royal families.

Every where he went he was greeted with hospitality.

He then decided to visit the United States and here he found, as he related to the interviewer, "The most likeable race of people he had ever seen."

Represented Danish Government

After extensive wanderings over the United States, he then went to South America, as a representative of the Danish government. Here, he was commissioned to investigate conditions of Danish settlers in that country.

After leaving South America he visited the island possessions of the United States, Alaska and Canada.

Visits Notables

Everywhere that this Globe Trotter went he gathered valuable data and pictures of his travel log. He also prizes among his collections a book signed by Kings, Ambassadors, Governors, Presidents and Monarchs, which verify his many interesting experiences.

He has crossed the Atlantic Ocean and the American continent twelve times; he has visited Alaska four times as well as having visited every nation on the earth.

Prefers U. S.

When asked which country appealed to him the most he declared that the United States was by far the best country and that he has come here to live at the conclusion of his travels.

Peterson has gained an enviable reputation as an authority on world affairs and is a prominent lecturer on the subject. He has compiled his travels into a series of three illustrated lectures which he has given before numerous clubs, schools and fraternal organizations.

Nine Black Legion Men Are Convicted

DETROIT, Mich. — (NWS) — Charged with the murder of Chas. A. Poole, WPA worker, last May, nine members of the Black Legion were found guilty by a jury. he further emphasized, Ireland will increase its independence because no wheat need be imported for bread. A blockade such as was enforced during the Great War would have no effect on Ireland if she were supplied with bread. Economic independence, it was stated, and with it, the independence of Ireland, are being atained through these factors.

Asked if De Valera's work would continue in Ireland, Mr. Murphy indicated that at the end of his present term of office, he would most certainly be re-elected. "Purely from an impersonal point of view," stated Mr. Murphy, "De Valera's majority and popularity has increased, and is increasing. Indications of the two recent elections in Ireland show that there is little likelihood of a change."

Concerning the national debt, he further pointed out, it could be eight times what it is today, and the country would still be in a sound financial condition. The total public debt, it was further stated, is less than one year's revenue.

"Ireland," stated the consul, "does not regard unemployment as a result of the depression alone. She considers, too, the great displacement of labor by machines as an important factor." Accordingly, he emphasized, Ireland is attacking the condition in a slightly different manner than other countries.

Ireland has successfully proven herself able to govern without any outside aid, it was emphasized particularly, and has taken great strides forward. The question of self-government has been successfully settled, he further indicated.

"Eamon De Valera," stated Mr. Murphy in conclusion, "will see the eventual settlement of the Irish question, once and for all."

Capacity Crowd Congregates At Cal Rally Dance

Varied Program and Dance Make Evening Distinct Social Success

Cramming Madigan Gymnasium to capacity, three thousand enthusiastic Gael supporters attended the annual Cal game rally last Friday. Never before has a rally been accepted with so much enthusiasm and spirit, it was stated by Chairman Bill Bourne.

A varied program of entertainment was presented, with addresses being given by Joseph Alioto, student body president; Jack Appleby, California representative; Judge Ed Kennedy, the perennial freshman; Brother Albert, president of the college, and Edward P. (Slip) Madigan.

As an added feature, the Saint Peter's Glee Club presented several selections. The San Francisco group was generally regarded to be one of the features of the evening.

The Saint Mary's Glee Club also sang, and as a result of their performance, have been hailed on the campus as the outstanding group of songsters ever to have come out of Moraga Valley. They were ably directed by Richard Vail, local musician of sorts.

Judge Ed Kennedy received a tremendous ovation for his spirited remarks and vocal encouragement. Student opinion favored the judge over all other speakers.

Following the rally, a dance was held in the gym, music being furnished by the Salesian Boys' Club orchestra. Much favorable comment was received, the committee reported, on the music which this group furnished.

Approximately $50 was realized on the affair, it was reported, making the dance distinctive from both the social and financial angles.

high school team is coached by Mr Clyde Ogden.

Then, on November 10, Bill Bourne and Victor Wilkiemeyer will take the negative side of the question, "Resolved: that our present neutrality laws are inadequate to keep us out of the next war." They will meet the varsity team from the University of California.

The next debate of the year will take place on November 16 and will find the sophomore room-mates, Bill Kirkham and John Sullivan, defending the affirmative of the Pi Delta Kappa question, which will be announced in the near future. The negative will be argued by the San Francisco State College team.

Final debate of the fall season will take place on Sunday, Novem-22, at San Quentin Prison, when the junior team of Mana, Fleming, and Goldman will meet the San Quentin debaters on the question. "Resolved: that the United States should adopt the English system of radio broadcasting and control." It might be noted that the English system eliminates advertising from the radio lanes through an individual tax on every person owning a radio. The Saint Mary's team will defend the affirmative.

COLDS

The great enigma of modern medicine, the common cold, comes in for a bit of publicity this week through the reports of tests conducted by the American Chemical Society to determine just how susceptible different people are to colds.

We all run the risk of catching cold and subsequently developing pneumonia. Whether we catch it or not depends on our physical fitness, or more specifically on the ability of our body to consume oxygen per unit of body surface.

The Society conducted tests in one hundred people to determine how much oxygen they consumed: each person was required to ride a stationary bicycle for two minutes, or until they were breathless but not completely exhausted. Only three out of the hundred got top rating of 1500 centimeters of oxygen per minute for each square meter of body surface. Those who got 900, however, were considered to be in good condition. Then, during the next seven months, it was found that 64 per cent of those who got 900 or better, had only one cold or less, while of the remainder, 80 per cent had four or more colds.

If the science of medicine can't cure our colds, it can at least tell us how often we'll catch them.

SPINACH

Perhaps you remember (O vain, conceited hope) that last year in this column we debunked the mighty weed, spinach. Its so valuable component elements, it was found, could be only partly used by the human body. And now, adding insult to injury, the scientists of the Children's Fund of Michigan find that spinach is actually derogatory because of its high oxalic acid content.

Calcium is an extremely important element in the nourishment of human beings, especially children. The oxalic acid in spinach, it has been found, by combining with the calcium in the diet, turns it into a form which the human body can not use. In the case of a five-year-old girl whose normal calcium retention was .176 grams per day, spinach decreased her calcium retention to .122 grams, and pure oxalic acid to .082.

Maybe parents will not be so insistent in the future that their parents eat their spinach. How about it, papa Meitzler?

Oliver Contestants Hold First Meeting

Local interest in the Oliver Essay Contest has reached a record high, according to the report of the faculty moderator, Brother Henry, who bases his statement on the response received at the first meeting held last Monday.

The contest, which is held annually, is made possible by Bartley P. Oliver, prominent Saint Mary's Alumnus. The best essay on the topic of "Catholicity and American Citizenship" will receive the first prize of $75, while the second and third prizes will be $50 and $25 respectively.

A new procedure adopted last year will again be put into practice during this year's event. All the contestants will be grouped in one room and will then be given the entire day in which to write their essays.

Typewriters will be allowed during the competition. Brother Henry said that the proper procedure would be for them to saturate themselves with their subject for about a month before the day of the writing.

Another meeting to which all students are invited, will be held on Wednesday, October 14 in D120.

Dramatic Club Awaits Outcome of Theater

Future plans of the Dramatic Club are as yet indefinite, it was revealed by Professor Louis LeFevre.

"We have yet to await the outcome of the Open Air Theater site and the cost of its construction before we can make any definite plans," he stated.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Neither the Alumni Notes nor the Saint Mary's Club columns appear in this issue because the copy was not received. They both will be run as usual next issue.

Roos Bowl Grid Films Attract Pigskin Fans

East Bay grid fans now have the opportunity of seeing each week, the California and Stanford game of the preceding Saturday on the screen of Roos Bros. 15th and Broadway store.

Throughout the current grid season, from Tuesday through Friday of each week, five showings of the pictures will be given daily with comments by an outstanding local grid authority.

Thousands of local fans weekly avail themselves of this feature which is conducted in the basement of the building in a specially designed room. Pictures of the Oregon-Stanford and California-Oregon State games will be shown during the coming week.

PRE-MED CLUB

Leading the opposition were Thomas Passantino, San Francisco, and Willis Zuck of Portland, Oregon. This pair stated that the club membership should be limited.

The group voted in favor of admitting Pre-Dentals in the organization with the understanding that they will enjoy all club privileges except witnessing operations.

Butler Approves

James E. Butler, comptroller of the college, has approved of the plans of the club for a club room according to President Rod Stetson. Occupancy of the club room will take place shortly, Head Janitor Carl Wedberg promising to have the quarters ready by the end of next week.

Chesterfield Plans New Radio Hours

The popular Andre Kostelanetz dance programs sponsored by the Chesterfield Cigarettes over the Columbia network will open their Fall season on September 30th with the return of Nino Martini as star of the Wednesday evening broadcasts. Kay Thompson, Ray Heatherton and the Rhythm Singers will continue to hold the spotlight on Fridays,with a new broadcasting time of 8:30 E. S. T., and a rebroadcast of the entire show from New York at 11:30 for listeners in the West.

The Martini programs on Wednesday evenings will also feature a new Chesterfield chorus of 18 mixed voices which Kostelanetz has spent many weeks selecting and rehearsing. Insiders on radio row who have heard the new ensemble are lavish in their praises, and some claim that it is the finest singing aggregation Chesterfield has yet put on the air. They plan to vary the brilliant dance arrangements of Kostelanetz with the pick of light music from musical comedies, operettas and popular movies.

With the same background of Kostelanetz' dance music on Friday evenings, the Kay Thompson-Ray Heatherton combination, accompanied by the Rhythm Singers will continue to present their interpretation of popular songs and vocal novelties. This program was one of the outstanding hits of the summer season, twice being honored by nationally prominent magazines in the form of medal awards as a dance program "refreshingly different." No doubt Chesterfield's new time periods on Friday, which include the later broadcast from New York for the Columbia stations in the Western half of the country, were arranged so that more listeners could enjoy these popular entertainments.

If the Gaels maintain their present pace, at the end of the current season they may have played to 500,000 gridiron fans, it was indicated this week by Graduate Manager Bill Smith.

Illness Confines Three Students In Hospital

Entering a bay region hospital during the week, Richard Vail, manager of the glee club, was operated upon for appendicitis.

Also in the hospital was Arthur Williams, freshman student, who Tuesday returned from Providence Hospital where he has been receiving treatment during the past few days.

James McHugh, a sophomore student, has been confined to the college infirmary during the week for a minor ailment and was released yesterday.

BAND

it a full repertoire of music so that a good show will be presented at the game. Last Saturday at the California game the band was asked why the members did not play their usual victory concert at the conclusion of the contest, but it was impossible. As was explained by the manager of the group, Joe McTigue, facilities were not exactly right for the music. Due to the large crowd present at the game, the band was forced to sit on the field. For this reason the usual amount of music during the game and the concert after were lacking.

According to McTigue, the musicians have received a great deal of attention from the various people that have heard them play both at the games and over the air. "The band, however, is not content with its present success," the manager said, "and it plans to keep striving for better music and an opportunity to give more pleasure to those who hear it."

Hearty German Meals Hit By Food Shortage

BERLIN, Germany— (NWS)— The thick steaks and plentiful supply of butter and fresh eggs that graced German menus during the Olympics have disappeared. Actually, the Reich's food supply is 20 per cent below normal. This was impressed upon 500,000 peasant farmers by Chancellor Hitler at the Bueckeberg Autumn Festival, who were urged to redoubled efforts in raising bigger crops.

the Rally committee and close friend of More's.

A motion apropriating $25 to send "Hi-Ho" Kenny, head yell-leader, to the Loyola game was carried with no dissenting votes.

Three bills amounting to $34.93 were sanctioned and ordered to be paid. They were bills incurred by student body expenses.

Clips For Papers

A suggestion was made that clips be put on the papers in the lounge in order that they might be kept in more orderly fashion. This was a plank in the presidential platform last year, and will probably be carried out in the near future. A committee consisting of John Soares, Bill Glackin, and Al Shine were appointed to investigate the matter.

Henry Neutzel, fiery junior representative, making his opening speech in the sessions, suggested further action on the broadcast of the eastern games in which Saint Mary's plays. Steps are to be taken, it was indicated.

Those attending the meeting were: F. Soares, Feeney, Munson, Freshmen; Moran, Glackin, Sophomores; Riley, Moore Neutzel, Juniors; J. Soares, Martin, Nevin, Seniors. The only absent member was sophomore Ralph Jack.

How About The Gael?

SOME WEEKS ago the editor of the Gael announced that before the actual work on the annual could be begun, it would be necessary to have on hand the five hundred dollars as required by the publications committee. Shortly thereafter, a sales drive was started, but was soon lost sight of in the confusion accompanying the opening of other activities on the campus.

A great deal more than half of the required sum has already been collected, and there is no question but that the remainder of the amount will be taken in. But there is a time element involved. Actual work on the annual is stymied, and the editors of the year book have but to bide their time until the money comes in.

Since the editors have no alternative but to wait, you can do your share by making a deposit of fifty cents to any of the Gael representatives during this week. The sooner the actual work can get underway, the greater assurance there will be that a truly representative book will be issued.

Remember that Saint Mary's has a record in this field of which she can justly be proud, and that she is the only men's college on the coast that has not suspended publication during the depression.

From the Heights . . . !

FROM HIS lofty promontory in football's Valhalla, Knute Rockne undoubtedly looks down with a soft smile and an eager eye at the latest grid masterpiece resulting from the immortal system that he made famous. Perhaps he watches them as they charge through their paces—powerful, red-white-and-blue-clad men sweeping everything before them with their finesse and power—and barks a silent command or two at them; nodding his head in approval as they react alertly to his tacit wishes. Certainly he must be proud of the wonderful team spirit of these men: the wonderful pride in their school, in their coach and in themselves that makes them give everything within their power on the gridiron—that makes of them a unified group of men, a team without a star or an individual hero, but a team of eleven heroes on the field at all times, and thirty-three more heroes on the bench.

Such a team would warm the cockles of old Knute's heart. He'd love to have them back at Notre Dame, facing the best the East and Middle West have to offer; carrying on in the tradition of the Fighting Irish. But failing this, we know he'd rather his former pupil and his friend of long standing, "Slip" Madigan, would have them than any other coach in the world. For such an alert, high-spirited team of men assuredly belongs under a Notre Dame coach—under the direction of either of the men who are among football's greatest personalities, Rockne or Madigan. Under any one else, the fire and spirit—the very soul of this team would be lost.

This team made its appearance Saturday, and like the Rockne teams old, it fought its way to victory in a blaze of glory. With the indomitable courage of Saint Mary's men infused with the pride and determination of their Notre Dame coach, these men gave a superlative exhibition of football; leaving behind them in California Memorial Stadium the memory of a gallant band of modern warriors fresh from a successful joust with the knights of the enemy. Saint Mary's College is proud of its team, proud of the individuals who make up that team, proud of the coach who guides its destinies, and proud of the spirit behind all of Saint Mary's sports. Like the ghost of old "Rock" from above, we breathe a prayer of thanks for a team and a coach such as these with which we are fortunately blessed!

A Good Idea

VERY SIGNIFICANT is it that the great powers of the world were able to get together during the last fortnight and thoroughly settle what was possibly as serious a monetary crisis as has appeared on the international stage in many a year. Negotiations were promptly made, representatives of governments conferred, French currency was adjusted . . . everything was completed so swiftly, so smoothly, so effectively that scarcely was the situation known to the general public than the entire matter was settled to the satisfaction of all nations concerned. In light of recent international developments, in light of the ambitious programs of Europe's militarists, it sems almost impossible that such accord could have been reached in such short notice. In the midst of the bloody massacreings in Spain, in the midst of a Hitler inspired, anti-Communist drive in Germany, in the midst of a counter movement in Russia, in the midst of apparently unsettled English policy, in the midst of further hostilities in the Far East, this agreement was concluded.

One is led to wonder why it is that questions of political policy cannot also be settled in such a simple, efficient way. Why could not dictators settle their claims in like manner? Why should nations fly at each others throats on the slightest provocation when far better means lie at hand? Certainly it can be said that this is utter idealism, that nationalism checks any such movement. But is not money also an international affair, does not nationalism also enter? An international currency war could easily have been precipitated and such an attempt was apparently made by Russia, but the situation was averted because the nation with the might threw its resources into play, and other nations became obedient. How fine it would be if such could be accomplished in political questions? No need would there then be for spilling of human blood, no need would there be to belabor future generations with staggering debts, no need would there be for gold star mothers, however heroic and patriotic they be.

Certainly our imperialists, our dictators, our empire-builders can take a look at the recent currency adjustment and derive from it pointed lessons.

WE OUGHT to regard books as we do sweetmeats, not wholly to aim at the pleasantest, but chiefly to respect the wholesomest; not forbidding either, but approving the latter most.—PLUTARCH.

OUTLOOKS & INSIGHTS

By BROTHER LEO

SOUND AND FURY

To preserve or restore our sense of proportion it will do none of us any harm to read Paul Gallico's article, "Beware of Athlete's Head," condensed from the American Legion Monthly in The Reader's Digest for October. Publicity, according to this gentleman, who has concocted much of it and therefore probably knows, is "hero poison," and its victims are track men, golfers, swimers and football players—especially the latter since in their case "because the season is short, the dosage is concentrated and ruthless." The hero "is likened to Thor, Ajax, Mercury, to the wind and the thunder. He is nicknamed after some great personage of antiquity—or more often, and more aptly, an animal . . . How can he help but see himself as a figure of tremendous importance when he reads that 99,000 will jam the stadium the following week to see his duel with Broncho Whosis, an equally useless and pumped up celebrity from another university?"

Brother Leo

Mr. Gallico tells what is to me a new story about the great Knute Rockne. In the South Bend Tribune there used to appear a Friday morning sports column under the byline of "Bearskin," a series of blistering paragraphs that "fried the team as a whole first, and then crisped various members." "Bearskin" knew the Notre Dame heroes in their least heroic aspects and told what he knew: "He knew the lazy ones, the ones who kept scrapbooks and who read their clippings, the training breakers, the ladies' men; and he called each spade a spade." "Bearskin" was, of course, Knute Rockne himself. His column was an antidote for too much publicity, an ice-pack for athlete's head.

Hero poison is by no means confined to athletics. A business figurehead, a social nonenity or an academic stuffed shirt is sometimes pumped up to grotesque proportions by single-minded publicity men; and now and then the victim explodes from excessive internal pressure. Let a man—almost any man—be hailed as "a wizard of finance," "an outstanding artist," "a dynamic administrator" or "a distinguished savant" for a year or two, and he is almost certain to take the build-up seriously. Nothing will save him except the holy virtue of humility, a candid friend or an uncommon measure of common sense.

Praise is among life's greatest incentives; we all need it and we all should be generous in bestowing it. But even praise can be overdone. It certainly is overdone when it is dished out wholesale and with patent insincerity to men who have accomplished nothing at all or nothing important and constructive. "I am what I am in the sight of God, and that it all," said Saint Francis of Assisi. He was miles ahead of his time.

POISON

A good current example of irony is supplied in The New Yorker for September 5:

"At Newport a well-known multi-millionaire who had been working nineteen and twenty hours a day hating the President was warned by his physician to cut down on the hating. The magnate courageously refused to heed the warning of the medico.

" 'This is not a time for a man to spare himself,' he said. 'I shall continue to hate the man who has Betrayed His Class with unabated vigor. Whatever the price may be, I am willing to pay it. My only regret is that I have but one life to lay down for the Liberty League.' "

The delicious irony I leave to The New Yorker with the casual reflection that more of it in our journalism would do much to prick the soap bubbles of pretense and pomposity which float so persistently from political pipes. Hatred, however, is another matter. To call a man a good hater is a dubious compliment.

Hatred is a form of auto-intoxication. When we hate anybody we may or may not hurt the object of our hatred, but we most unfailingly inflict grave injury on ourselves. To get rid of hatred is to take a long step toward working out the beast in us.

The Bystander

By FRANK MARTIN

If any of the illustrious gentlemen who read this column troubled to look at the Campus Comment section of last week's Collegian, he would doubtless have been surprised—as I was myself—to find indications of a deplorable misunderstanding existing in the mind of our friend, the Gentleman from the South.

Just when I thought I had weaned him from the horrible inferiority complex that springs to the fore at the very mention of Los Angeles, the worm—I mean the Gentleman—turned, and with subtle irony and devastating sarcasm, blasted the Bystander from his smug, self-satisfied roost, and sent him scurrying for a cubbyhole where he might conceal himself and nurse his wounds in privacy.

I had thought my references to the Gentleman were of the "light" character that is customary of gentle raillery, but evidently they were too strong for him. Having to defend Los Angeles so constantly has begun to affect him adversely. The poor fellow's mind is slipping under the strain. Tsk, tsk. And he was such a bright young man, too! Such an excellent scholar! But what can one think when a fellow acts in such an unreasoning manner?

With supreme lese majeste that in itself seemed not human, he attacked the San Francisco that is so dear to all who abide therein, declaring maliciously that "San Francisco is like a staid old gentleman who has outlived his usefulness." In the opposite vein, he spoke of the progress of Los Angeles when everyone knows that its only progress is in the growth of its population. In that respect, it is more like a fertile rabbit farm than a city.

Continuing with heretical abandon, the Gentleman atacked unsparingly the God-given Sout' of de Slot accent of certain favored San Franciscans. He pointed out with prideful error that "Angelenos don't rely on imitated dialects; they speak the 'American' language." Quick, Henry, the dictionary! What language is that? I've heard of English, Carlylese, Johnsonese and the Ubangi native tongue, but never "American!" . . . Ye gods! Could he have been referring to the Brooklyn dialect—the Flatbush Robin? Verily, his mind has slipped!

So, though it be a grave injustice —this crime of lese majeste—our superior position allows us to be lenient with the offender. Be of good cheer, Carl; your sin is forgiven thee. Go thy way and sin no more.

Collegiana

By CORNELIO BACA

APOLOGIA

It may not be the exact meaning —but it's the Latin in us. Anyhow this week we give you something different (?)—an all verse column. It may get verse and verse as it goes erlong (that's the New Joisy in us) but please bear with us. The following pieces may be the very false gallop of verse, but gallop they do. P. S. The fact that I come from Gallup, New Mexico, has nothing to do with it.

LOGICAL

From down South (wouldn't you know it) comes this masterpiece of Aristotelian thought

The more we study, the more we learn
The more we learn, the more we know
The more we know, the more we forget
The more we forget, the less we know;
So why study?

ME TOO!

And from Yales comes the lament:

Some girls are blondes and some brunettes,
Some are beautiful and wise,
Some, they say, are clever, too—
But I guess they go with other guys.

GREENER PASTURES

From Aubrun we learn that:

A little green chemist,
On a summer day,
Some chemicals mixed,
In a little green way;
And now the green grasses
Tenderly wave
O'er the chemist's
Green little grave.

XXXXXXXX

You know what those marks signify. Haven't you placed them at the end of those epistles so close to your heart numberless times? Anyway to La Salle Junior Collegian warns us:

To flirt is very wrong;
I don't.
Wild youths chase women, wine and song;
I don't.
I kiss no girls, not even one;
I don't even know how it is done;
You wouldn't think I have much fun;
I don't.

LINE BUCK

The Daily Bruin gives us a new way to hit the line:

"I draw the line at kissing,"
She said in accents fine;
But he was a football hero,
And so he crossed the line.

THERE'S THE RUB

This gay little ditty comes from a southern city (Gosh! it's getting me.) Anyway the following comes from Los Angeles Junior College:

He told the shy maid that he loved her;
The color left her cheeks;
But on the lapel of his coat
It stayed for weeks and weeks.

FLIRT & DIRT

We hold the following a legitimate "pome" (from the Bruin) if for no other reason than that love makes men lose their reason—why not their powers of correct language?

My love have flew
Him done me dirt
I did not knew
Him were a flirt.
To you unschooled
Oh let me bid
Do not be fooled
As I was did.
He have came.
He have went.
He have left I alone.
He never come to I.
I can never went to he.
It cannot was.

And I have had enough of this drivel, and I know you must be sick of it, too.

Thought for the Week

"We may express decent respect for the memory of the just, but we shed tears only at the grave of the generous." — Oliver Goldsmith,

A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring;
There shallow draughts intoxicate the brain,
But drinking largely sobers us again.

—Alexander Pope.
